Lincoln's Inauguration to be Pre-The Washington correspondent of the New York Express, the only Bell and Everett daily paper in that city, refers to the mpossibility of any plan of adjustment

House Committees, and says:

It now being universally admitted that there is no prospect of either the Senate or House Committee being able to agree upon any plan of adjustment, the conviction forces itself upon the mind of every resident of the District that, unless the Republicans evince a desire for the settlement of the slavery question upon the basis that shall be acceptable to the South—the inauguration of Lincoln in Washington on the 4th of March, will not be accomplished. The threats of the Republicans to inaugurate him by force, are treated with scorn and contempt, even by the clergy of the District. They say that Maryland alone, with her 550,000 white inhabitants, will be able to prevent Lincoln's inauguration, if disposed—and to cope successfully with any force that can possibly be brought against her. To this the Republicans reply, that 100,000 Wide Awakes from The Naiad Queen and a Murder in the Dark. -We hope no one will forget that to-night and agreeable actress who is now playing short engagement at our theater. To this the Republicans reply, that 100,000 Wide Awakes from the North will escort Lincoln to Washington, and form his body guard—But how much will it cost to move an army of one hundred thousand men over a space of four hundred or five hundred miles, and support them for one month even? The largestarmy the United States has ever had in the field, never exceeded 25,000 men at one time, the cost of lishments as an actress, we can readily urline in so perfect a style, must be posessed of histrionic talent that will be strongly apparent in the protean piece addition to the Naiad Queen. We hope States has ever had in the field, never exceeded 25,000 men at one time, the cost of which was about $3 per day per head. This would give $300,000 per day for 100,000 men; or $9,000,000 per month! How could the Republicans before the organization of the next Congress, which, in the most favorable supposition, cannot occur before June, raise even one million of dollars? But allowing for the sake of the argument, that they can raise nine millions—how are they to provide quarters for their army in the inclement month of March? Are they to take possession of the houses of the District, without the consent of the inhabitants? The manihe will have a crowded house. The two at once retired to a private apartment, in which they remained until noon, when Mr. Eincoln returned to his residence for dinner. At two clock another conference commenced, and lasted until four, at which hour Mr. Lincoln reappeared in the public reception room at the State House.

That during the interview a proposition was made to Mr. Wilmot to accept a position in the Cabinet is looked upon as a fait accompli by all the friends of the President sleet. It is likewise added by them that, as in the instance of Mr. Bates, no definite

The selection of Mr. Wilmot gives general satisfaction among the supporters of Mr. Lincoln in this latitude. It is looked upon as an earnest of the Territorial policy to be pursued by the Republican regime. It is construed into an unmistakeable indication of the tirm adherence of the Republican President to the Chicago platform, and of his unshaken faith in the soundness of its most prominent plank, viz: The right of Congress to legislate prohibitorily on the subject of slavery in the Territorics.

THE COMMITTEE OF THIRTY-THREE.

The Committee of Thirty-three yesterday adopted Mr. Adams' proposition to admit New Mexico, the following five Republicans dissenting: Messrs. Kellogg, Washburne, Morrill, Tappan, and Robinson. It was sustained by Messrs. Adams, Campbell, Corwin, Curtis, Dunn, Ferry, Howard, Humpbrey, and Windom, together with Messrs Burch of California, Bristow of Kentucky, and Winter Davis. The rest of the South, who were present, voted adversely. This is the utmost concession the Republicans are willing to make, and it does not command their united support now. Mr. Adams proposed it in a patriotic spirit of conciliation, in order to demonstrate that there was no such obstinate purpose to refuse any advance, as had been charged. Before this proceeding, Mr. Nelson substituted Mr. Crittenden's proposition, already published, for his own. Mr. Corwin moved to amend it by striking out the clause recognising and protecting slavery in the territory hereafter to be acquired south of the Missouri Line, as a test, which was carried, 17 to 10. Then the proposition, as thus amended, was defeated by nearly a reversal of the former vote, whereupon Messrs. Miles Taylor, Winslow, and Houston retired from the Committee, five Southern members having been previously absent. It is obvious, from these signs, that the South will insist on the ultimatum of slavery below the Missouri line now and hereafter, unless the people repudiate the demagogues here. They can never obtain that concession, and therefore may proceed with that knowledge. Even if this was granted, Mr. Hunter and others would demand a change in the mode of electing a President by referring it to the Congressional districts. Their ingenuity is racked to contrive some scheme by which the natural growth of the North and its expansion of political power may be restricted or countervailed.

at Lewisville, on the Central Road. A way train left here an hour in advance of the through hog train the evening before. At Lewisville the way train stopped on the bridge east of the town, and run the locomotive on the switch to bring up some cars already loaded to attach them to the train. The bridge is a high one—say thirty or forty feet above the water. The engineer of the through train saw the rear light of the stationary train some distance off, but supposed for a time that it was in motion. Discovering that it was stationary when he reached the down grade leading to the bridge—a long descent however—he whistled down brakes and reversed his engine. The brakenen were all asleep and made no response, and the train slid along at a rapid rate on the frosted rails.

The fireman started back to put the brakes down, but he was only in time to get caught by one of his legs between two ears, when the collision took place. The locomotive was badly wreeked, and thrown over on the timbers of a bridge, and it is a marvel she did not go through. A number of cars were broken up and knocked crossways and every way, and the track was torn up and spread in places for a considerable distance. But the worst accident was to the fireman, whose leg was shockingly mangled in his efforts to save the train. It was found necessary to cut away the timbers of the cars to extricate him. The amount of damage we have not learned. But few of the hogs, we understand, were killed. The car in which the owners of the hogs and the drowsy breaksman were sleeping, had both ends stove in, but no one was hurt in it. The passengers yesterday had to pass under the bride, from train to train, but we presume the wreck will be clared away to-day.—[Indianapolis Sentine].

Correspondence between the Com-missioners from Alabama and Gov-ernor of Kentucky.

To His Excellency B. MAGOFFIN, Governor To His Excellency B Magoffin, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky:

I have the honor of placing in your hands, herewith, a commission from the Governor of the State of Alabama, accrediting me as a Commissioner from that State to the sovereign State of Kentucky, to consult in reference to the momentous issues now pending between the Northern and Southern States of this Confederacy, Although each State, as a sovereign political continuity, must finally determine these grave issues for itself, yet the identity of interest, sympathy, and institutions prevailing alike in all the slaveholding States, in the opinion of Alabama, renders it proper that there should be a frank and friendly consultation by each one with her sister Southern States, touching their common grievances, and the measures necessary to be adopted to protect the interest, honor, and safety of their citizens.

I come, then, in a spirit of fraternity, as the Commissioner on the part of the State of Alabama, to confer with the authorities of this Commonwealth, in reference to the infraction of our constitutional rights, wrongs done and threatened to be done, as well as the mode and measure of redress proper to be adopted by the sovereign States aggrieved, to preserve their sovereignty, vindicate their rights, and protect their citizens.

In order to a clear understanding of the appropriate remedy, it may be proper to consider the rights and duties both of the State and the citizen under the Federal compact, as well as the wrongs done and threatened.

consider the rights and duties both of the State and the citizen under the Federal compact, as well as the wrongs done and threatened.

I therefore submit for the consideration of your Excellency the following propositions, which I hope will command your assent and approval:

1. The people are the source of all political power, and the primary object of all good governments is to protect the citizen in the enjoyment of life, liberty, and properry; and whenever any form of government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the inaliciable right, and the duty of the people, to altar, or abolish it.

2. The equality of all the States of this Confederacy, as well as the equality of rights of all the citizens of the respective States under the Federal Constitution, is a fundamental principle in the scheme of these States under the Constitution was formed "to establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare, and secure the blessings of liberty to her citizens and their posterity," and when it is perverted to the destruction of the equality of the States, or substantially fails to accomplish these ends, it fails to accomplish these ends, it fails to accomplish these ends, it fails to accomplish these ends, it fails to accomplish these ends, it fails to accomplish these ends, it fails to achieve the purposes of its creation, and amendments thereto, by which these sovereign States delegated certain specific powers to be used by that Government, for the common defense and general welfaire of all the States and their citizens, and when these powers are abused, or used for the destruction of the rights of any State or its citizens, each State has an equal right to judge for itself, as well of the violations and infractions of that instrument, as the mode and measure of re-

4. Each State is bound in good faith to 4. Each State is bound in good faith to observe and keep on her part all the stipulations and covenants inserted for the benfit of other States in the constitutional compact—the only bond of Union by which the several States are bound together; and when persistently violated by one party to the prejudice of her sister States, ceases to be obligatory on the States so aggrieved, and they may rightfully declare the compact broken, the Union thereby formed dissolved, and stand upon their original rights, as sovereign and independent political conservations. rights, as sovereign and independent polit-ical communities; and further, that each ctizen owes his primary allegiance to the State in which he resides, and hence it is the imperative duty of the State to protect him in the enjoyment of all his constitutional rights, and see to it that they are not decided on withheld from him with inverted in the state of the tional rights, and see to itthat they are not denied or withheld from him with impunity by any other State or government.

If the foregoing propositions correctly indicate the objects of this Government, the rights and duties of the citizens, as well as the rights, powers, and duties of the State and Federal Government under the Constitution, the next inquiry is, what rights have been denied, what wrongs have been done, or threatened to be done, of which the Southern States or the people of the Southern States can complain?

At the time of the adoption of the Federal Constitution, African slavery existed in twelve of the thirteen States. Slaves are recognized both as property and as a basis of political power by the Federal compact, and special provisions are made by that instrument for their protection as property. Under the influence of climate and other causes, slavery has been banished from the Northern States, the slaves themselves have been sent to the Southern States, and there sold, and their price gone into the pockets of their former owners at the North. And, in the meantime, African slavery has not only become one of the fixed domestic institutions of the Southern States, but forms an important element in their political power, and constitutes the most valuable species of their property—worth, according to recent estimates, not less than four thousand millions of dollars—forming, in fact, the basis upon which rests the prosperity and wealth of most of these States, and supplying the commerce of the world with its richest freights, and furnishing the manufactories of two continents with the raw material and their operatives with bread. It is upon this gigantic interest—this peculiar institution of the South—that the Northern States and their people have been waging an unrelenting and fanatical war for the last quarter of a century.

An institution with which is bound up, not only the wealth and prosperity of the Southern people, but their very existence as a political community. This war has been waged in every way that human ingenuity, urged on by fanaticism, could suggest. They attack us through their legislative halls, through the public press, and even their courts of justice forget the purity of their judicial ermine, to strike down the rights of the Southern slaveholder, and override every barrier which the Constitution has erected for his protection; and the scared desk is desecrated to this unboly crusade against barrier which the Constitution has erected for his protection; and the sacred desk is descerated to this unholy crusade against our lives, our property, and the Constitutional rights guaranteed to us by the compact of our fathers. During all this time, the Southern States have freely conceded to the Northern States, and the people of those States, every right secured to them by the Constitution, and an equal interest in the common Territories of the Government; protected the lives and property of

Whilst it may be admitted that the mere election of any man to the President of any man to the Presidency is not, per se, a sufficient cause for a dissolution of the Union, yet, when the issues upon, and circumstances under which he was elected, are properly appreciated and understood, the question arises whether a due regard to the interest, honor, and safety of their citizens, in view of this, and all other antecedent wrongs and outrages, do not render it the imperative duty of the Southern States to resume the powers they have delegated to the Federal Government, and interpose their sovereignty for the protection of their citizens.

It was upon his acknowledgment of allegiance to a higher law, that Mr. Seward rested his claims to the Presidency, in a speech made by him in Boston before the election. The Union of these States was one of fraternity as well as equality; but what fraternity now exists between the citizens of the two sections? Will the people of the North cease to make war upon the institution of slavery, and award to it the protection guaranteed by the Constitution? Will the South give up the institution of slavery and consent that her citizens be stripped of their property, her civilization destroyed, the whole laid waste by fire and aword? It is impossible; she cannot, she will not. Then why attempt longer to hold together hostile States under the stipulations of a violated Constitution?—It is impossible; disunion is inevitable. Why then wait longer for the consummation of a result that must come? Why waste further time in expostulations and appeals to the Northern States and their citizens, only to be met, as we have been for years past, by renewed insults and repeated injuries? Will the South be better prepared to meet the emergency when the North shall be strengthened by the admission of the new Territories of Kansas, Nebrasks, Washington, Jefferson, Nevada, Idaho, Chippewa, and Arizona, as non-slaveholding States, as we are warned from high sources will be done within the next four years, under the administration of Mr. Lincoln? Will we be stronger then, or better prepared to meet the struggle, if a struggle must come? No, rerily! When that time shall come, well rerily! When that time shall come, well may our adversaries laugh at our folly and deride our impotence. The deliberate judgment of Alabama, as indicated by the joint resolutions of her General Assembly, approved February 24, 1860, is, that prudence, patriotism, and loyalty to all the great principles of civil liberty incorporated in our Constitution, and consecrated by the memories of the past, demand that all the Southern States should now resume their delegated powers, maintain the rights, interest, and honor of their citizens, and vindicate their own sovereignty. And she most carnestly but respectfully invites her sister sovereign State, Kentucky, who gallantly vindicated the sovereignty of the States in 1795, to the consideration of these grave and vital questions, hoping she may concur with the State of Alabama in the conclusions to which she has been driven by the impending dangers that now surport of the Southern States. But if or conclusions to which she has been driven by the impending dangers that now surround the Southern States. But if, on mature deliberation, she dissents on any point from the conclusions to which the State of Alabansa has arrived, on behalf of that State I most respectfully ask a declaration by this venerable Commonwealth of her conclusions and position on all the issues discussed by this communication.—And Alabama most respectfully urges upon the people and authorities of Kentucky the startling truth, that submission or acqui-

But, it is said, there are many constitutional conservative men at the North, who sympathize with and battle for us. That the late Presidential election unequiveed by shows, to breast the tide of fanaticism that threatens to roll over and crush us. With them it is a question of principle, and we award to them all homor for their loyalty to the Constitution of our fathers, but their defeat is not their ruin. With us it is a question of self-preservation—our lives, our property, the safety of our homes and our hearthstones—all that men hold dear on earth—is involved in the issued on the constitutions, a bright and joyous future lies before us. We can clothe the world with our staple—give wings to her commerce, and supply with bread the starving operative in other lands and at the same time preserve an institution that has done more to civilize and christianize the heathen than all human agencies beside—an institution all ke beneficial to both races, anciliorating the moral, physical, and intellectual condition of the one, and giving weath, and happiness soon gather over our sunny land, and the correction of the one, and giving weath, and happiness and property of the south of the contact of the

So far as the policy of the incoming administration is foreshadowed in the antecedents of the President elect, in the enunciations of its representative mea, and the avowals of the press, it will be to ignore the acts of sovereignty thus proclaimed by Southern States, and of coercing the continuance of the Union, its inevitable result will be elvil war of the most fearful and evolting character. Now, however the people of the South may differ as to the mode and measure of redress, I take it that the fficen slaveholding States are united in opposition to such a policy, and would stand in solid column to resist the application of force by the Federal authority to coerce the secoding States. But it is of the utmost importance that before such a policy is attempted to be inaugurated, the voice teen millions of freemen, and it Mr. Lincoln and his advisers be made to renhace that such would be the issue of the "force policy," it will be abandoned. Should we not realize to our enemies that consequence and avert the disastrous results?—But if our enemies be crazed by victory and power, and madly persist in their purpose, the South will be better prepared to resist. You sak the co-operation of the Southern States in order to redress our wrengssin the Union. We yet look hopefully to assurances that a powerful reaction is going on at the North. You seek a remedy in secession from the Union. We wish the united action of the Slave States assembled in Convention within the Union. You would act separately we unitedly. If Alabama and the other Slave States assembled in Convention, say at Mashville, or elsewhere, as early as the 5th day of February, I do not doubt that we would agree in forty-cigh thours upon such reasonable guarantees, by way of amendment to the Constitution of the United States, and by giving them time to make the question with the people there, such a reaction in public opinion might yet take place as to secure us our rights, and save the Government. If the effort failed, the South would be united to a man, the North divided, the horrors of ciril war would be averted—if anything can avert the calamity; and if that be not possible, we would be in a better position to meet the dreadful collision. By such action, too, if is failed to preserve the Government, the besies of another Confederacy would have been agreed upon, and the new Government would in this mode be launched.

New Orleans, Dec. 24, 1880.

Gentlemen: I have received your note of the 21st inst., in which you express a desire to learn my views "in reference to the attitude Louisians should assume in the impending crisis." I cheerfully comply with your request.

To you, gentlemen, who are familiar with my political course, I need hardly say that up to this moment the Union has had no more zealous and consistent advocate than myself. I did not, of course, lose sight of the fact that, viewed as a mere question of political economy, the South was greatly the loser by the Union; thet it necessarily involved the abandonment by the Southern people of every branch of industry except agriculture, and the almost entire surrender of the most inerative occupations of manufactures, commerce, and navigation to their Northern brethren. But I found in the mejesty of this Union, in the dignity and strength which it gives us abroad, in the peace and harmony which it ought to give us at home, enough, and more than enough to console me for the pecuniary sacrifice which it involved.

So long, therefore, as it continued to confer these blessings, I was willing to Pake that sacrifice. But, alsa! we pay the price of peace and no longer obtain it.—For the last twenty years a portion of the people of the Northern States have waged ecaseless war upon us. They have outraged our feelings, robbed us of our property, and trampled on our most sacred rights. The only excuse they offer for these outrages is, that they are not satisfied with our domestic institutions; that it has become inseparably interwoven with our social system; that its abolition would involve our viin; and, finally, that, whether right or wrong, we alone are responsible for it; and that any attempt on their part, directly or indirectly, to interfere with it, is justified neither by the law of nations nor by the Constitution. They are deaf to all argument. The press, the pulpit, the halls of Congress and of Stat stream of invective, denunciation, and insult. No libel upon the Southern people is too atrocious to be uttered or believed. The express provisions of the Constitution, and of laws passed in pursuance of it, for the protection of the rights of slave holders, are contemptuously disregarded, and it is boldly asserted that these provisions are not binding upon the consciences of those who are called upon to enforce them.

and it is boldly asserted that these provisions are not binding upon the consciences of those who are called upon to enforce them.

The bloody drama enacted in Kansas, and the still more bloody one attempted in Virginia, were practical illustrations of these principles. There is every reason to believe that these atroclities were instigated by men who were willing to share the crime, but shrank from the infamy of its exposure; that grave Senators and reverend clergymen were behind the scenes prompting the obscure wretches who were the immediate actors in these tragedies.—No stronger evidence could possibly be adduced of the depraved state of public sentiment at the North upon the subject of slavery that the fact that acts so criminal in themselves, and so calculated to disturb the peace of the country, far from weakening the party by which they had been prompted and encouraged, seemed, on the contrary, to strengthen it. Emboldened by this fact, and by the forbearance of the Southern people, which they mistook for timidity, the Black Republican party resolved on a still bolder measure, no less than to take possession of the General Government, and to use its powers for the accomplishment of their designs. They accordingly selected as their candidate a man whose political record was a blank, and who on that account was more likely to prove a pliant instrument in the hands of his benefactors. That Mr. Lincoln will, to the extent of his ability, sustain the principles and carry out the views of the party which elected him, there can be no doubt.

To believe otherwise, is to suppose not only that he will violate his pledge, but that he will adopt a different course from that pursued by any of his predecessors. We are bound to presume, therefore, that opposition to slavery will be the vital principle of his Administration. Can the Southern States continue under a government administered on these principles, consistently either with honor or with safety? I think not. I think, on the context, the world and the millions be the maxim of the party, andered the would be made to sow dissension among the Southern people; opposition to slavery would be the sole path to honor and promotion, and every Southern traitor would be selected for reward. Not many years would elapse before the anti-slavery party would spring up in every Southern State, and where followers exist, leaders would soon be found. The contest would no longer be between the Free and the Slave States. Your fresides would be invaded and the torch of insurrection be brandished in your very faces. This is no fancy sketch It is in part drawn from reality. In every one of the border States the embryo of a Abolition party already exisis, which, under the genial influence of an anti-slaver. Administration, would be rapidly developed. Recollect that Kentucky has he Cassius M. Clay, Missouri her Bates, Viginia her Botts, and Maryland her Davil I trust that the day is yet far distant whe Louisiana will add a name to this illustrious catalogue; but let us not be too contents. the position of Virginia has been already aken, and will be adhered to. Something has been said of a cau cus of the members of Congress from the order slave and free States, held at Wilard's Hotel, in Washington city, some lays ago, and the most extravagant hopes have been based on it. The friends of a Central Confederacy, in the event of a final breaking up of the Union, particular y, have been much elated. They have not earned yet that the border free States are s thoroughly and hopelessly anti-slavery as New England. They would jump from Louisiana will add a name to this illustrious catalogue; but let us not be too confident. In public as in private affairs, those who act on the supposition that all men are honest and incorruptible, commit a fatal error. Every Greek was not an Aristides, nor every Roman a Cato. And however great my confidence in the integrity and patriotism of the Southern people, I do not wish to see this tremendous battery of corruption brought to bear upon them.

But there are some who, while they admit the truth of all I have said, are neverthe frying-pan into the fire. Referring to this caucus, and the feeling of those who attended it, the Washington eity correswrites thus:

pondent of the Cincinnati Commercia writes thus:

The caucus of the Congressional delegations of the border free and slave States, held last Friday night at Willard's Hotel, turned out a complete fizzle. It is true that fourteen States were represented, and that nothing unpleasant happened during the meeting. Nevertheless, every Republican and Democratic member whom I have seen since that night, unanimously agree in the assertion that nothing is to be hoped from this caucus.

It is well that our national, conservative friends in the North should keep it perpetually before their fellow-citizens, that, while there are in the South thousands of those who will stand by the Union as long as there is a hope that the spirit of the Constitution may be restored, there are none who do not make that an absolute condition of its existence. Those who oppose secession would yet accept revolution at once, rather than the perpetual shocks of sectional agitation and puritanical aggression.

The correspondent of the New York Ex-oress, writing from Springfield, Illinois, reports Mr. Lincoln as saying to a visito who had mentioned the fact that the Gulf States are all seceding together, "Well, well, we shall the easier get our appoint ments confirmed by the Senate!"

What have we to expect from such a ma in the Presidential chair? The Union is be ing broken up, civil war is threatened, the opes of millions are being dashed to the round, and when his attention is called to e effects of the success of the policy he is pledged to carry out, he overlooks all the omentous consequences of that political triumph, and only thinks how they will affect his appointments! The President has sent into the Sen e the appointment of a Mr. M'INTYRE, of New York or Philadelphia, as Collector of he Port of Charleston, South Carolina. This is understood to be indicative of hange in the policy of the Administration, and will probably lead to an immediate conflict between the Federal authorities and the State of South Carolina, as a Col ector would hardly be appointed, and parieularly from another State, unless it was the purpose of the President to attempt to collect the revenues at that port. If the nomination of Mr. M'INTYRE be onfirmed, we may expect soon to hear of news more exciting than any that has yet startled us. The new Senator from Oregon, M SAKER, made his maiden speech in the Senate on Wednesday. He is a man of great ability, and his speech is extravagant

y praised by his party friends in the Sen ate and elsewhere. Of its character, and DR. H. RALLS SMITH has permanently ted in Louisville. He devotes hims pecially to the treatment of Diseases of the the effect it produced, the correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer says: EYE AND EAR, Mr. Baker's speech was one for coercion throughout, and made Secessionists of conservative ones, Office on Fifth street, near Market, how shall the resistance be ofered? Some think that the State should take no action, except upon consultation with the other Southern States. Others think, on the contrary, that she should take, separately and independently, such course as her judgment may diotale. In the latter opinion I fully concur.

I admit that it is desirable that the Southern States should, as 500n as possible, adopt semt general plan of co-operation. But, as regards a preliminary conference between them, there are several objections which appear to me insparable. The first is the delay which would necessarily attend it. In carrying it out, it would be requisite that the Legislatures of the fifteen Southern States should convene and discuss it. Supposing (what is not at all probable) that all, or even a majority of them concurred in the proposition, it would be necessary that they should authorize an election of delegates to the convention, and that this election should take place. Several menths, therefore, would probably elapse before the convention could meet. As it would be a very numerous body, and would present a fine opportunity for the display of oratory, it is probable that a month or two more would elapse before the close of its deliberations. The second objection is, that it is by no means certain that the convention could agree upon any plan that would be satisfactory, even to the body itself.—When we see such a difference of opinion even among the citizens of the same State, it is hardly probable that the delegates of fifteen States would find it any easy matter to come to an understanding.

Thirdly. Even should the convention agree upon a mode of proceeding, it would have to be submitted to the States for their approval or rejection, so that, after all, we would come back to the point from whence we started, to-wit: Separate State action.

Fourthly. But the most conclusive argument against a preliminary Convention JAVA COFFEE-50 pockets strictly prime of Java Coffee received per mailboat and for sa by [jan4] COOD & MOODY. D.R. W. W. BROWN would return his thanks the for the libera' patronage he has received for the last 20 years, while he was in the Drug business. He has for the present made such arrangement as will be satisfactory to the afflicted. He has made arrangement while acting as agent for Mr. Mofflit, in the Drug Store, Ac., to devate his attention to all that may call on him, labering under the chronic der any chronic form of disease, and may not be able to call on him at his office, can send a description of their disease by letter, and the proper medicines sent by express to any part of the country. The cost is from $1$ to $5. His office is at the Drug Store corner of Fourteenth and Jefferson streets, Louisville, Ky.

all, we would come back to the point from whence we started, to-wit: Separate State action.

Fourthly. But the most conclusive argument against a preliminary Convention is that, if ever practicable, the time for it has passed. Two States, South Carolina and Mississippi, have already determined on separate State action. It is understood that Florida is nearly unanimous in favor of the same course, and there is every reason to believe that Virginia, North Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Texas will adopt the same mode of proceeding. As regards those States that have not yet moved in the matter, it is fair to presume that, if they shall determine to move, they will be governed in their course by the existing state of facts, and will hardly commit the absurdity of asking of States that have already adopted their course, to confer with them on the proper course to be adopted; but on the contrary, will cooperate with them in the only way in which so-operation can be effectual, namely, by following their example.

For these reasons I am of opinion that, as matters now stand, separate State action is not only the best, but the only practicable mode of proceeding.

These, gentlemen, are my views on the subject to which your letter refers. It is not, I assure you, without reluctance that I have come to the conclusions I have formed. I am not one of those who contemplate the dissolution of the Union with anything like joy or exultation. On the contrary, it has long been the object of my cherished affections, and I would partfrom it with unfeigned sorrow. But we have the consolation to reflect that we have done all in our power to preserve it; that we stood by it as long as it stood by us, and only abandoned it when, like an unatural parent, it sought to destroy its off-spring. Having discharged our duty to the Union, we have now to discharge our duty to our native or adopted State; abide her decision, and to follow her fortunes whatever destiny may awaither.

Among the most significant facts of recent occurrence, tending to throw light upon the views and policy of the President eiect, is the visit of the Hon. David Wilmot to Springfield, on Monday, by Mr. Lincoln's invitation. There may, or there may not, be truth in the telegraphic conjecture (for it does not affirm that it is anything more than a conjecture) that Mr. Wilmot is to be taken into the Cabinet.—Let this turn out as it will, the invitation and the long conference cannot be otherwise regarded than as a public attestation of the new President's esteem for Mr. Wilmot, and of his confidence in his judgment. If it be true that Mr. Wilmot is to have a place in the Cabinet, that fact would weigh as much as any written declaration by Mr. Lincoln. Mr. Wilmot's name is identified with the policy of excluding slavery from the Federal Territories. To appoint him to a place in the Cabinet, would be equivalent to a prodamation, by Mr. Lincoln, that he will make the principle of the famous Wilmot Proviso the Corner-stone of his policy. TO MR. HUGH WILEINS:

THE CARPET LINING:

Is the only thing of the kind that we have ever seen that we would care to have put under our carpets. So much are we pleased with it, that we would be very unwilling to have another carpet (old or new) put down without it. The difference between a room where it is used and where it is not, is so striking as to arrest the attention of the most unrobservant. It is worth more than it cost in the increased softness and pleasantness its dives the carpet, in stating that it adds one half to the carpet's wear.

If our recommendation of it will add anything to your sales, we cheerfully give it, feeling wed your customers a much greater kindness than we do you. THE events of the year before us will be fraught with a greater interest to the people of the whole country than those of the exciting period shrough which we have just passed—thrilling in their native and as important in their results as they have been. For the first time in the history of our country, a political party, purely and strictly sectional, has succeeded in electing the Chief Executive officer of the nation, and thus obtained control of one department of the Federal Government. This has alarmed the people of the other section, and precipitated movements looking to a dissolution of the Union. The whole country—and the people of all the States alike—are deeply and equally interested in what concerns the welfare of every American citizen, whether in the North or the South, and whether at home or abroad. The amaloamation of Language.—There is a srowing tendency in this age to appropriate the most expressive words of other languages, and after a while to incorporate them into our own; thus the word Cephalic, which is from the Greek, signifying "for the head." is now becoming popularized in connection with Mr. Spalding's great Headache remedy, but it will soon be used in a more general way, and the word Cephalic will become as common as Electrotype and many others whose distinction as foreign words has been worn away by common usage until they seem "native and to the manor born."

YESTERDAY NOON'S DISPATORES

From Washington. Washington, Jan. 2.—The Postoffice Department has cancelled its contract with the Isabel line for the conveyance of the mails from Charleston to Key West of the mails from Charleston to Key West.

Many persons found it impossible to obtain admittance to the Senate galleries, they being crowded as early as 10 o'clock this morning. In addition to the oratorical attraction, it was thought the President would transmit the contemplated message relative to affairs in South Carolina. This, however, has been necessarily delayed to ascertain pending questions. Instead of the message, however, the President sent in an important nomination for Collector in the neighborhood of Charleston harber. The name is believed to be Wm. McIntyre, of Pennsylvania, although others say he is of New York.

The Republican Senators desire to go into executive session on the subject, but this was resisted by the other side, and an adjournment was carried by the Democrats present with the exception of Bigler, Letham, and Powell.

It is not certain, according to present appearances, that Mr. McIntyre will be confirmed. The nomination is considered in the highest degree important and foreshadows the future operations of the Administration.

Private accounts from Charleston state that one thousand negroes are engaged in the erection of fortifications at the mouth of the harbor, which has been obstructed by sunken vessels and the buoys removed; also that Gov. Pickens has received the offer of ten thousand volunteers from without the State, and who hold themselves in readiness.

readiness.
It is not true, as has been reported, that Senator Seward intends to submit a preposition relative to the present crisis or to make a speech on the subject. From Albany, N. Y.

ALBANY, Jan. 2.—The Legislature met at Albani, Jan. 2.—The Legislature flict at Il o'clock this morning.

The Governor in his message in relation to national affairs says that in his opinion secession is discusion, and disunion, so soon as it shall take form and proportion, is treason, which it will be the duty of the is treason, which it will be the duty of the General Government to assert and punish. To permit or acquiesce in a treasonable conspiracy against the national authorities is to confess that our Government is an absolute failure. The people of New York are not prepared for any such admission, and, in the enforcement of the laws, will give their carnest. faithful, and constant support. New York does not ask nor does she desire the restoration of the Missouri Compromise line. After a full and free discussion, her people have decided against the extension of slavery into any of the Territories, and this they regard as a disposition of that question till revoked by the same authority. Ever ready, nevertheless, as she has proved herself to be heretofore, New York will, in all honorable ways, endeavor to reconcile the estrangements now existing in the country. The action of a magnatimous and loyal State should be patient, calm, conciliatory, and fraternal, without the surrender of important rights or the sacrifice of vital preference. eneral Government to assert and punish portant rights or the sacrifice of vita principles.

Gov. Morgan recommends the repeal of the so called Personal Liberty Law, al the so called Personal Liberty Law, although it is entirely inoperative; and, without any disposition to interfere, he respectfully invites all States that have laws of this character, conflicting with the Federal Constitution, to repeal them. He thinks it would be well for the Legislature of the State of New York to give solemn assurances to the Southern States, that all of their rights under the Constitution and laws are recognized, and will, on the part laws are recognized, and will, on the part of this State, be respected and maintained

Michigan Legislature.

Detroit, Jan. 3.—The Michigan Legislature met at Lansing yesterday, and organized by electing Dexter Mussey, of Macomb, Speaker. The retiring Governor delivered his annual message to both Houses. State affairs are reported to be in a prosperous condition. He takes strong ground against the right of secession, charges the President of the United States with misrepresenting the principles of the Republican party, and attributes the present sectional excitement to misrepresentations of the Northern Democratic press as to the intentions and designs of that party. In relation to the personal liberty laws of this State, he says:

If they are unconstitutional and in conflict with the fugitive slave law they ought to be repealed, but says these laws are right and speak the sentiments of the people, and are in strict accordance with the Constitution and ought not to be repealed. Let them stand. This is no time for timid and vacilitating counsels while the cry of treason is ringing in our ears.

The message of the incoming Governor will be delivered to-day. Michigan Legislature.

Boston, Jan. 3.—Mr. Classin made a short address in accepting the offlee of President of the Senate, in which he said: While we meet under circumstances auspicious in our own State, a deep agitation pervades other parts of our country, causing every true patriot to feel the greatest anxiety. Disunion is attempted in some States because, as is alleged, laws have been passed in others contrary to the Constitution of the United States. Massachusetts is accused of unfaithfulness in this matter in some of her enactments, although she has always been ready to submit to judicial decision and is so still. She has ever guarded jealously the liberty of her citizens, and I trust ever will. We cannot falter now without disgrace and dishonor. Whatever action we may take, let us be careful of the rights of others, but faithful to our trusts, that we may return them to to our trusts, that we may return them to our constituents unimpaired. Speaker Phelps, in his remarks to the House, uttered substantially the same sentiments.

Gov. Andrew's message will not probably be delivered till Saturday. OFFICE LOUISVILLE COURIER, THURSDAY EVEN'C, Dec. 3, 1861.

Owing to the fact that a number of the banks intend to close to morrow, a large amount of the paper maturing on that day had to be paid to-day, and consequently there was a larger demand for money. As far as we could learn all the paper was met by that promptness which always characteriess the merchants of Louisville. To morrow, however, will be the great day, and one that has been looked forward to by the business men, and all have made preparations, and, from all we can learn, we believe that every dollar of paper falling due here on to-morrow will be promptly met. The general feeing in the market was decidedly better, though matters are still in a very uncomfortable channel but from present prospects we are led to believe that things will now begin to improve, and before the close of the present month money will be more plentiful than for several years past. There is an increased demand for produce and provisions to fill Southern orders, and the large shipments which have been made in that direction during the past day or two will greatly increase the receipts of money and help our merchants. The transactions in produce and provisions are as large, if that direction during the past day or two will greatly increase the receipts of money and help our merchants. The transactions in produce and provisions are as large, if not large, than they were at this time is syear. Uncurrent money was easier, but rates were about the same as yesterday. There is no change to note in the market for exchange.

In the general market there is more activity, and matters begin to present a much brighter appearance. The favorable advices from New York, which continue to be received, caused a still firmer feeling in the market, and though no advance has yet been westablished in prices, there were more buyers at the overside figure, and holders were not anxious to sell. The sales of flow to-day were about 600 bbls at the demand, with large sales at the quotions given in our s OFFICE LOUISVILLE COURIER, THURSDAY EVEN'C, Deb. 3, 1861. FORT SUMTER BESIEGED !! Wastington, Jan. 3 .- Intelligence wa received last night that Fort Sumter i ow besieged, that all Major Anderson's ommunications are cut off, that For Moultrie has been completely repaired and the guns remounted, and that everything is in readiness to open fire on Major Anderson. New batteries are being ered ted around him by the people, and ever day the danger and difficulties of rein oreing him are increased. His frequen failed to move the President, he has de will perish, if he must, in the fort. His men have bound themselves with an oath to stand and perish with him. It is beyond a doubt that a combination is forming to take forcible possession of the Government at Washington on or before the 4th of March, but the precise time is not yet determined. The above is from sources which leave no doubt of its reliability.

XXXVITH CONGRESS-SECOND SESSION

WASHINGTON, Jan. 3.—SENATE.—The gal-ories and lobbies were again crowded to-Thursday's Proceedings.

lories and lobbies were again crowded today.

A message from the House, informing the Schate of the passage of the Indian Appropriation bill, was received.

Mr. Bigler presented methorials, unanimously signed by citizens of Philadelphia, asking the Senate to pass the Crittenden Resolutions, and if Congress would only give the people the orportunity they would embrace it, and their friends at the South would discover that the people were prepared to meet their complaints in a spirit of conciliation and kindness.

Mr. Crittenden, offered the following: Whereas, The Union is in danger, and it is difficult if not impossible for Congress to concur by the requisite majority, so as to enable it to take such measures and to recommend to the States such amendments to the Constitution as are necessary to avert the danger; and whereas, in so great an emergency, the opinion and judgment of the people ought to be heard. Therefore, Resolved, That provision be made by law, without delay, for taking the sense of the people and submitting to them the following resolutions:

[The Clerk then read the Crittenden res-The Clerk then read the Crittenden res people and suomitting to them the following resolutions:

[The Clerk then read the Crittenden resolutions already published.]

Mr. Crittenden said something must be done; it would be an open shame if ruin be allowed to come upon the country; the sacrifice to be made was comparatively worthless; the peace and safety of a great country were herer purchased so cheaply. He would appeal with great confidence to the people; they have the greatest interest in the Governmet. He had confidence to the people would give good advice. The resolutions were laid over; and the uninished business of yesterday taken up.

Mr. Baker resinned his remarks. He said he was of the opinion that discussion on all points of difference was useful. He was willing to meet all just cause of complaint in a fair and honorable way. He contended that the attack on the meit of the North for action in regard to the Territories was unjust, for men of all classes in the North believed slavery the creature of local law. He quoted from Gen. Cass' speech in Detroit in 1854 against the so-called doctrine of equality, also from the speech of Senator Hunter before the Breckinridge Glub at Charlotteville, admitting that the opinion of the South in regard to slavery had changed, and that her opinion was against the repeal of the Missouri Compromise and for the extension of the system.

Mr. Hunter said he never admitted that the South thought Congress had the right to restrict slavery in the Territories Mr. Baker said he understood that gentlemen on the other side, sometime in their lives, were in favor of establishing a line between fire of the favor of establishing a line between fire on an all avery.

Mr. Bonjamin said that he had never admitted that Congress had any power to extend slavery into any Territory. The South had been in favor of establishing a line between fire the favor of establishing a line between fire th nitted that Congress had any power to ex-merely.

Mr. Baker thought we could do nothing as a matter of compact which would violate the Constitution. He thought if the Senator from Louisiana believed in his conscience that Congress had no right to exclude slavery, he must have violated his oath when he voted for such exclusion.

Mr. Benjamin said Congress had no such power under the Constitution.

Mr. Baker said an act of Congress was a secred law, made under oath, and if he voted to prohibit slavery by certain law, when he actually believed that Congress had no right under the Constitution to pass such a law, did he not violate his oath when he rendered such a vote? He said the Sonator from Louisiann, in a dreary catalogue, complained that the Government interfered with slavery in the South.

Mr. Baker was glad to hear the champion of Cangress, but of the States.

Mr. Baker was glad to hear the champion of slavery admit that Congress had not interferered, but that his complaints were of the States. How could Illinois, for instance, interfere with slavery in Virginia?

Mr. Benjamin said she could not by bill, but armed men might go to Virginia and select the United States arms, and murder erely. Mr. Baker thought we could do nothin

Mr. Benjamin said she could not by bill, but armed men might go to Virginia and seize the United States arms, and murder peaceful men, and try to excite the slave to revolt. A man in Massachusetts was found to say it was right, and Massachusetts elected him Governor, and thus indorses murder; Massachusetts had sent Senators here to abuse and villify the South.

Senators here to abuse and villify the South.

Mr. Baker said that there was not a better scope for debate. He admitted that individuals might steal in Slave States. There were bad men everywhere, but this was not cause for separation and war.

Mr. Benjamin said the Republican party intend to surround the Slave States with Free States, so as to force emancipation.

Mr. Baker argued that if even that were so, it was no cause for dissolution.

Mr. Baher argued that if even that were so, it was no cause for dissolution.

Mr. Baher said no! and proceedeed to argue that it was a necessity that slavery must be surrounded by Free States. If slavery is extended, it must be against the sentiment of the world. He claimed that the North were only the allies of the South, and were bound to return fugitive slaves. England or Russia would not do that. If the slaves should revolt, the North would be bound to assist the South, and would do so. He argued that the right of free speech could not be controlled in a free country, or by a free press, which was a greater safeguard to a free country. He would not restrict them to avert civil war or maintain slavery. The great principle of free government would never be surrendered; come weal, come woe, slavery should never be extended by the power of the Government of the United States. He would not yield one inch to secession, but there were things he would yield. Among them, the repeal of the Personal Liberty bills, FLOUR AND GRAIN—Sales of 580 bbls flour at $4 50@5 50; 1,200 bushels wheat at 90c@$1; 2,700 sacks new shelled corn at 52@55c, sacks included; 780 bushels ear at 43@45c; 800 bushels oat 33@35c.

acquired, and the extension of the line to the Pacific ocean was demanded. The records show that hereported, as Chairman of the Committee on Territories, a resolution to extend the line to the Pacific. This was adopted in the Senate, but when it was sent to the House it was rejected by Northern votes. That opened the flood gates of the agitation of 1848, which only we've settled by the compromises of 1850. When we settle this question in the certificities, then we shall settle it entirely. When we settle this question in the compromise of the extension of the property of dissolution with for the question in the compromise of the extension of that line in 1848, which opened the agitation. The arguments of 1819 and 1820 were repeated. The positions of the North and the South were the same. The purest patriots in the land were alarmed, and Mr. Clay came back to the Senate to see if he could not bring peace. He found no fault with the Southern members, but he could find no support of this line in the North. The Missouri line was abandoned, because its friends said they could not carry it out in good faith. Then they turned to see what was next best. They desired to take the peace of the country. At last it was decided to leave the question to the people of the Territories themselves. The records show that he supported both compromises and for the same reasons. Peace followed all over the country, but in 1833 and 1854 it became increasery to organize the Territories of Kansas and Nebraska. The committee in forming the bill determined to earry out the Compromise measures of 1850, though they had all been in favor of the Missouri Compromise as leng as it would be carried out. A hue, and cry was immediately raised that they were violating a sacred compromise, but the bill did not mention the Missouri Compromise; but did the people possess the power of settling the question for themselves?

The history of the Government might be divided into three tarris. Before 1880 the selves?

The bistory of the Government might be divided into three parts. Before 1820, the Government admitted many Territorics, but all was peace. After the agitation of 1820, we could be a second of the second o 1820 was settled, all was peace.— Again till 1850. Since then we have had a continual controversy and the result of the late election has conand the result of the late election has convinced the South that it was the fixed policy of the Democratic party of the North to invade their constitutional rights. The Senator from Ohio. (Wade) admitted the existence of this belief at the South, but charges it to the misrepresentations of the Northern Bemecracy.—It matters not whether these evils are real or lingingurary, if the South were resolved to rush into the horrors of discussion and war rather than suffer them. Howassorry to see the Senator bringing it here as a partisan question; but, as it was brought, he felt bound to defend the He was sorry to see the Senator bringing it here as a partisan question; but, as it was brought, he felt bound to defend the Democracy. No man was better pleased to learn that he had misrepresented the Republican party. He asked the Senator from Ohio, if it was not the policy of that patty to contine slavery within its pretent limits, by the action of the Federal Government, and whether it was not the policy of that party to expend the policy of the party to expend the policy of the party to expend the party to expe

the Federal Government, and whether it was not the policy of that party to exclude slavery from territories we may possess or may hereafter acquire. Whether or not, that party were in favor of returning the fugitive slaves. In short, whether it was not the policy of that party to exert all the power of the Federal Government under the Constitution, according to their interpretation, to restrain and cripple the institution of slavery, with a view to its ultimate extinction in the States, old as well as new, North and Seuth.

Mr. Wadessid he could find the answer in his speech already made. He had no additions to make.

Mr. Douglas said he did not expect an equivocal answer. He proceeded to signe ditions to make.

Mr. Douglas said he did not expect an equivocal answer. He proceeded to argue that such was this policy of the Republican parity, and quoted Lincoln's speeches, when he said the crisis must come, and the States must become all one thing or the other, to show that he maintained such policy. He said he had the hope that Mr. Lincoln would repudlate all such extreme sentiments. Be that as it may, neither he nor his party have the power to do harm to the South. The South, however, is ready to rush into disunion and meet the consequences. No man would go further than he to enforce the laws, but we must look facts in the face. Rebellion often becomes successful revolution, and a government was often forced to recognize de facto governments in revolted provinces. In this Government the laws must be enforced by civil process, how are we going to execute the law when the Federal Government has no power to act? How are we going to enforce the laws in South Carolina? He denied the right of secession, but she has done it, and how could we help it? South Carolina will not be alone, and how are we going to enforce the laws in South Carolina? He denied the right of secession, but she has done it, and how could we help it? South Carolina will not be alone, and how are we going to enforce the laws in less we make war, and conquer the State. Are we prepared for war with our brethere? He would not tolerate the idea until every hope of adjustment was gone. He was for peace to save the Union. War was disunion, certain and inevitable. He referred to the purchase of Louisiana, and said it was purchased for the benefit of the whole Union, and for the safety of the Upper Mississippi in particular. The possession of that river was more necessary now than it was then. We cannot expect the people of the interior to admit the right of a foreign State taking possesson of that river. He also referred to the purchase of Alabama, and the amount paid, and asked if she could go out now? The Presdent in his Message first said we Presdent in his Message first said we could not coerce a State to remain in the Union, but in a few sentences he advised the acquisition of Cuba, as if we could pay $300,000,000 for Cuba, and then the next day she might secode and re-annex to Spain, and Spain sell her again. He had admitted that Texas cost us a war with Mexico and 100,000 lives. In the name of the 7,000 gallant men from Illinois who fought those battles, I argue against the right of that State to secede.

Mr. Hemphill asked if the protection of Texas was the only reason of the war, and if the United States paid anything to Texas for the land, and if we did not acquire California from that war.

Mr. Douglas said that the only complaint for the land, and if we did not acquire Callifornia from that war.

Mr. Douglas said that the only complaint of Mexico was the annexation of Texas, and we had only paid $10,000,000 for some barren land she did not own. He said the Constitution was intended to be perpetual, and he denied the right of secession under the Constitution, as against the Constitution and against justice and good faith. He said there could be no government without coercion, but coercion must be used in the modes prescribed by law. This is not a question of eoercion in a State; where no authority of the Federal Government remains, we are bound to recognize a government de facto, where the State maintains individual sway. The man who loves the Unian—who loves to see the laws enforced, will love to see a rebellion put down. How does he intend to enforce the law on a seceding State except by making war. In his opinion, we had reached the point when disunion was inevitable unless a compromise, founded on concession, could be made. He prefered compromise to war, and eonession to disunion. No compromise will be available which does not carry the question of slavery beyond Congress. He said he had voted for the proposition of the Senator from Kentucky, and was ready to vote for it again. Why cannot the Republicans unite

The Governor devies the right of voluntary secession—says it would be utterly destructive to every principle on which the national faith is founded. He appeals to the great conservative masses of the people to put down selfish and designing politicians, and avert the threatened evils, and closes with a strong recommendation to adopt all proper measures to secure our rights, and in the failure of this to resort to separation, but yet protests against hasty and unwise action, and records his devotion to the Union so long as it can be made the protector for equal rights.—The Governot then pesses to state matters, shews the finances to be in a prosperous condition, recommends the revision of the military laws, advises the arming of the military laws, advises the arming of the different railroads, and recommends the Legislature to relieve the banks from penalties incurred by temporary suspension.

None of these are due, but this amount having ac-cumulated in the Sinking Fund Treasury, it has been thought well to redeem the in-debtedness of the city.

From Albany, N. Y. ALBANY, N. Y., Jan. S.—The Albany Evening Journal, which to day appears in energed form, fully indorses the resolution introduced by Mr. Robinson for the admission of all the Territorics as two States and says, should these resolutions be adopt ed, as we hope they may be by a united vote, they will exert a salutary influence. The voice of New York, uttered through its Representatives upon a question of great public importance, will do more than anything to command the attention of Congress.

THE undersigned respectfully informs his patro and the public that he has enlarged his esti lishment for the manufacturing of the above articl and have them always on hand, he had the GEORGE BLANCHARD & SON.

**I SAY, JOE, what crowd is that near BLANCHensioners going to and from Blanchard & Son's continually. I am told that they received a new stock of Men's, Boy's and Youth's Clothing and Furnishing Goods last week, and I suppose the crowd is a little greater than usual: in fact, brother John told me that everal accidents occurred there last week in consequence of the dense rush of customers. It must be admitted that the great crowd you see going and coming from there every day must be taken as evidence that Blanchard & Son have the best stock of goods in the city, and sell much cheaper than anybody else. I must say that before I commenced dealing them. The stock of the property of the city, and sell much cheaper than dealing them. The country of the city and sell much cheaper than dealing them continued in my sould get Blanchard & Son's, I am getting rich." That's sufficient,
